

TRUE OR UNTRUE—WHICH?

The Ashland Gazette published recently what it said was a condensed summary of LE 455, the "model" watershed bill introduced by Senator Otto Liebers, of Lancaster county; Senator O. H. Person, of Wahoo; and Speaker Ed Hoyt, of McCook. The Gazette is a carefully edited, splendid newspaper. From long reading, we know it would not knowingly impose upon its readers.

Under the heading, "General Powers of District Organization Contemplated," this appears: "To tax: (1) Board of directors may levy general tax limited to one-quarter mill (25 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation) for five years on real property to provide funds for organization, surveys, engineering advice, etc." Then this sentence is added in blackface type: "Can be levied only upon vote of the qualified electors."

Is this true or only half of the truth?

The attorney for the district, Robert Van Pelt, together with Co-Chairman Raymond A. McConnell, Jr., Stanley Matzke, and former Lincoln Mayor Clarence Miles, appeared before the Lincoln council last Monday to brief it upon the legislation they are seeking at this session of the legislature. This dialogue between City Attorney John Jacobson (appointed to the post by former Mayor Miles) and Mr. Van Pelt, took place:

Mr. Jacobson: "Isn't it true that the district will be a subdivision of the state?"

Mr. Van Pelt: "That is correct."

Mr. Jacobson: "Isn't it true that, being such a subdivision, the district could levy a general tax on the people within that district, both urban and rural, with the permission (or approval) of the legislature and without the vote of the people?"

Mr. Van Pelt: "I believe that is correct."

This newspaper saw the condensed summary of the bill in The Ashland Gazette. It then sent Star Staffer Bill Dobler back to Mr. Jacobson with a copy of The Gazette, and a question of whether the statement was true or only half true. Mr. Jacobson's reply was that the statement was true, but it was also true that the district could levy the tax by procuring approval at a session of the legislature two years hence (without vote by the people of the district) and it follows that two years hence, or four years hence, if the funds raised by a quarter-mill levy are insufficient to carry out the avowed purposes of the legislation, then the legislature could be requested to increase the levy limitation.

There are other provisions set forth in this published condensation. One deals with the power of assessment against property within the district. It is stipulated that "assessments can be levied by the directors in accordance with the appraisal of a board of appraisal set up by the courts." What the condensation does not reveal is that the property owner's only remedy from the finding of that board of appraisal is the filing of an appeal in the courts, the hiring of a lawyer to present that appeal, the expense of litigation, the time and energy required to defend the individual's rights. "Funds to be used for that portion of the work that would have to be financed locally, such as purchasing rights of way" (under the right of eminent domain conferred upon the board—a right admittedly superior to that of villages and towns, cities and counties—individuals or corporations) is another feature of the condensation except for that matter enclosed within the parentheses. "Federal funds would cover the construction work, it is promised. How can the promoters of this legislation promise the people of the Salt creek basin at a time of national mobilization that federal funds will be available to cover all but ten per cent of the costs, or to meet every financial burden of actual construction?"

Then there is the matter of a tenth of a mill levy for recreational purposes on all personal and real property within the district, which, it is insisted in black type, is subject to vote of people. True, or only half true? There is the power for the district directors to borrow money and float bonds in anticipation of revenue to be collected from the general and special assessments. Is that all there is to it or are there limitations on the power of the board to borrow and spend?

Even in the face of staggering increased federal tax burdens—fresh, painful hikes in excise taxes—a second boost for the individual income tax payer, with the promise that a third will be necessary—increases in corporate taxes—the will to progress must remain in every community and every state. At the same time, frankness and the full facts must characterize every proposal that increases the financial burden of every home, urban or rural, in the Salt-Wahoo watershed, or any place in the state. What are the facts? Are we to be fed half the facts or all the facts?

Senator Liebers is the sponsor of this bill. Why is it that, strangely in the face of this discussion, he does not explain the broad powers contained in this bill—that is, if he himself has the answers? This paper will be glad to allot Senator Liebers any reasonable amount of space to tell its readers exactly what the bill provides, if he knows, and to discuss the inherent powers that stem from the broad language used.

GRATIFYINGLY PROMPT ACTION

Senator John Larkin, of Omaha, obviously does not believe in letting any grass grow under his feet. He took prompt, and gratifying steps to wipe out a "joker" which in some unexplained manner had been slipped into the enforcement provisions of Nebraska's liquor laws.

The Lincoln Star called attention to it in an editorial last Monday. Within 48 hours, Senator Larkin had asked his colleagues for unanimous consent to strike out the word "knowingly" from two sections of the liquor laws defining offenses and prescribing the penalties. He failed to obtain unanimous consent, a single vote dissenting, but upon his motion, the Nebraska unicameral took action to nullify amendments which would have made the job of prosecution of countless liquor cases extremely difficult, if not impossible. Liquor is here only by sufferance, subject to the regulations laid down by the legislature. It did not take the liquor commission, burdened with the heavy task of enforcement, long to discover that if, in the cases involving infractions of the regulations, it were necessary to establish that the offender had knowledge he was violating the law, conviction would be few and far between.

We do not need any relaxing of regulations, any opening up of loopholes. The liquor traffic needs the strictest regulation. Senator Larkin and his associates are to be congratulated for prompt, deserved action in eliminating a "joker."

NOW, WHAT DOES HE WANT?

Senator Kenneth Wherry, of Nebraska, was one of the spellbinders who warmed the cockles of the hearts of a large republican audience at a Lincoln Day rally in Washington Monday night.

"We don't want any more Koreans—no more Dunkirks," the Nebraskan was quoted as saying. That is understandable. Korea has been a hair shirt ever since Senator Wherry's good friend, General Douglas MacArthur, promised to have the boys back home by Christmas. Dunkirk was a combination of disaster and miracle.

If there is anyone in this country who does not know what Senator Wherry does not want, he is in a bad way. Mr. Wherry has been telling anyone willing to listen what he does not want constantly day after day at the very slightest provocation, or no provocation at all. Now and then, it would not be unreasonable if Senator Wherry would tell somebody what it is that he wants. Chances are that he would settle happily for a four-year lease for occupancy of the White House.

In this war is what Vienna was to the Germans in World War II. Now the city appears ready to fall to the advancing troops of the free world as they push on against its retreating defenders.

What will be left? Ruins and rubble, worse than that described by Bill Shinn when American troops slogged into Seoul in its first liberation. Famine, disease, bitter hardship await the hardy refugees who, with Oriental stoicism, will return to the city they chose to leave rather than submit to their conquerors.

Yet in this discouraging scene there is an extremely hopeful aspect. The unhappy people who preferred exile from their city, with all its terrifying uncertainties, to the known terrors of an oppressive regime stand as a symbol of the rightness of the U.N. cause. Those who took part in the exodus and will soon, it is hoped, participate in the return to Seoul, are those who know what communism means in practice. They are on our side, for keeps.

—Washington Merry-Go-Round— CAPITAL OFFICIALS IN BIG MUDDLE AS CONFUSION REIGNS

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — Official Washington has now reached an all-time high for confusion and chaos. Part of this, of course, results from the inevitability of war's growing pains. The new stabilization program, for instance, has been moving ahead so rapidly that even the most experienced Washingtonians have been unable to keep up with it. New agencies, new directors, new phone numbers, new addresses, new authorities and new regulations have everyone in a dither.

Take the case of "Jiggs" Donahue, the able attorney who convicted the west coast labor leader, Harry Bridges, who was appointed chief of enforcement for the new price-control agency. In his new job, Jiggs will be policing millions of prices and collaring black marketeers from coast to coast. But one morning, three days after he'd been sworn in, he discovered:

1—The price-control law gave him no power to prosecute black marketeers and price chisellers.

2—Overnight, someone had assigned him a new office, moved his desk, and dumped all his files in a big coffinlike box. He couldn't even locate his memo pad.

3—His mail had been lost somewhere between his old and his new office.

4—The "new" office, a dingy little room in an over-age building, didn't even have a telephone.

Remarkably the new price-enforcement chief:

"If anyone in the United States is violating price ceilings today, I'll have to hear about it via carrier pigeon. Of course, when I hear about it, I won't have the authority to do anything about it anyway."

Prediction: Once Donahue gets authority from congress he'll do a bangup job of protecting housewives and small businessmen from the price chisellers.

OUTTALKING THE POLICE

Seeing Morse of Oregon, who is no mean talker on the senate floor, had to outtalk two cops to get any sleep a few nights ago.

The scene was the Pennsylvania railroad station where Morse, a champion of the railway workers, was ironically stranded by his friends' walk-out.

At 2 a.m., the Oregon senator folded his overcoat for a pillow, lay down on a bench, and put his hat over his face. But not for long. A railroad policeman shook him. "You can't sleep here," he announced.

Drowsy, but never at a loss for words, Morse retorted: "As long as I have the sleeper ticket in my pocket and the Pennsylvania railroad does not provide the space, I can sleep right here. Whenever you need this space for sitting, I'll get up. Right now, I'm going to sleep."

Outtalked, the cop walked away. An hour later another policeman tapped Morse on the soles of his shoes. "Can't sleep here, brother," he said.

The senator went through his speech all over. The policeman's eyes widened in disbelief. Finally he said: "I know you, You're Senator Morse, and you're just like you were on the television program. You outtalked 'em all then, too. I kind of thought you were right then, and I do now. You go on back to sleep."

—RFC FAVORITISM—

Here is another example of the backstage favoritism which has made the Reconstruction Finance corporation one of the most dry-rot agencies in government.

H. A. Bonyun, sales manager of industrial alcohol for the giant Publicker Industries, also works for the RFC as an alcohol expert on a per diem basis. In this capacity one of Bonyun's jobs is to buy alcohol. Yet one of the biggest alcohol suppliers is Bonyun's own Publicker company. Thus he may be in the difficult position of serving two masters.

Particularly interesting is the fact that when this column queried RFC's rubber reserve regarding Bonyun's employment and the amount of alcohol purchased from the company for which he works, the RFC refused at first to make public any figures.

Finally, when reminded that the American public is entitled to know all the facts regarding government purchases, RFC officials unbent and stated that it had bought more industrial alcohol from Publicker than from any other domestic supplier.

—BEHIND THE FIGHTING LINES—

Our combat troops, now fighting in Korea since last July, are showing signs of combat exhaustion. As a result, the army has started sending small groups to Japan on 10-day passes. . . . The army is now dusting Korean cities with DDT to kill typhus-carrying lice. No official estimate has been made of communist casualties from typhus, but one captured North Korean medic reported 1,000 cases in his division alone. . . . The army is sending 40,000 more reservists to Korea, not as reinforcements but as replacements. . . . General Collins, the army chief of staff, reports privately that the army will be strong enough in 12 to 18 months for the United States to get tough in its diplomatic negotiations.

LIST OF 'UN-AMERICAN' NAMES SHOWS SUSPICION AND DISTRUST

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON.—Each year the house un-American activities committee catalogues on the average 250,000 "references." Last year 75,000 new names were added to the half million or more individuals "listed" in the committee's files. This is the base of what threatens to grow into a kind of thought control in this country.

The information contained in the committee's files is available not only to all agencies of the federal government on request and to members of congress but to law-enforcement officers throughout the country. The committee agents are somewhat vague about how far down this extends but it is clear that the definition of "law-enforcement agency" is fairly elastic.

The automatic cataloguing employed by the committee's staff results in the "listing" of the names of a great many individuals who would doubtless be astonished to know that they were in the files. For example, on the basis of one document that includes the name of the late Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state under Herbert Hoover and secretary of war under Franklin Roosevelt, the following respectable citizens who have repeatedly demonstrated their anti-communist convictions are "listed":

H. V. Kallenborn, Dorothy Thompson, Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton University, Kathleen Norris and Louis Bromfield, novelists, Newbold Morris, republican reform candidate for mayor of New York, John Chamberlain, formerly editor of Life magazine, A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Brooks Atkinson, drama critic of The New York Times, Donald Richberg, former new deal administrator, Prof. Harold G. Urey, the distinguished physicist, Margaret Cullin Banning, writer active in the republican party.

These people along with many others of equal prominence in 1938 opposed embargo on the sale of arms that the government in Washington had imposed on the government of Spain then trying to repel a fascist rebellion. What their beliefs or affiliations may be today, the files of the committee do not show.

Here is the way in which, in my opinion, these listings can be used to suppress any expression of opinion which reflects in the slightest degree from that which is rated as strictly orthodox. Take the following as a theoretical example.

above names were taken for the committee's files was that of the late Charles A. Beard, distinguished historian. Beard was at one time in his life savagely attacked for his economic views and later assailed almost as virulently for his belief Roosevelt deliberately took the country into a war in which we should not have participated.

Let's assume that Beard is still living and that a forum group in Zenith, O., wants to invite him to speak. But a member of the group—it could be an ultra-conservative or a new deal admirer of Roosevelt—wants to block Beard's appearance. He speaks up to say that they had better go slow and ask the head of the local subversive squad to write to the un-American activities committee for a check on Beard. After all, there's been criticism that the forum has had some pretty pinkish speakers. . . .

So the head of the subversive squad writes to the committee in Washington. The answer comes back that Beard is "listed." It may be one, two or three times. So he is not invited to speak and the Zenith forum does not hear one of the original and forthright minds of our time.

There are indications that in the past certain newspaper reporters have had access to the files. The accusation has been made that material in the files was leaked in such a way as to damage candidates for office in the bitter political campaign of last year.

The committee's staff points out, of course, that they do not in any way evaluate the "listings," nor even authenticate them. A staff member admitted, for example, that though the names of unsuspecting persons had been forged to a communist nominating petition filed in a county courthouse, all those names would go just as they were into the committee's file as having signed the petition. Such forgeries now and then come to light.

The work of listing and filing is done by the staff and is on such a scale that there can be little or no supervision of it by committee members. What staff members say about not evaluating nor even interpreting material in the files may be strictly true.

But the interpretation is done by those who obtain the information and who use the mere fact of "listing" to try to discredit anyone whose views they disapprove. It is here that the threat to freedom of opinion lies. If this technique is extended, it can well become a system of thought control that in the present atmosphere of suspicion and distrust could be rigid in its exclusion of any view that is dissenting, however mildly and timidly, from that bearing the stamp of narrow approval.

NEBRASKANS: In The Workshop and at Home

No. 68 of a Series

JUDGE Adolph E. Wenke was born at Pender, Nebraska. He attended the law college of the University of Nebraska from which he was graduated in 1923. He began the practice of law at Stanton and continued until 1938 when he was appointed judge of the Ninth district under Governor Cochran. Judge Wenke served as district judge until the retirement of Supreme Court Judge Eberly. He was elected to the supreme court and took office in January, 1943.

"I Always liked the law," he recalls. "Came to it by self-choice." In a preference between trial and appellate courts, both of which he likes, he leans to the appellate court procedure because the opportunity is offered to study the law before making a decision. And that, he feels, is a definite advantage over the trial judge who must make decisions constantly as the trial progresses, without chance for research.

He recognizes that the application of law seems difficult, as based upon a particular set of facts. But it has to be uniformly applied, and a single set of facts can't influence a court to make a decision that would otherwise be improper. "Certainty of the law is above all the most desirable," Judge Wenke explains. By establishing certainty, people can know and be thus guided by counsel as to their personal and property rights. JUDGE Wenke lists his family as his "hobby." And although he was the first lawyer in his family, he will not be the last. Son Robert graduated from Nebraska's law school in 1950 and is now practicing law in Long Beach, California. Son William is in his third year of law at the university, and Daughter Harriet who entered college this year is also seriously considering the legal profession.

Which makes it pretty complete, as far as the Wenke family is concerned. Judge Wenke himself never regretted his choice of vocation. When he was appointed to the district court, he says, "I decided to make the judiciary my life. And I haven't changed it yet."

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

ALL-AMERICAN

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of the Lincoln Star: Much has been written about your splendid paper, its fine editorials, society section, sports section, etc., during the transition period of converting it from an evening to a morning paper. However, very little has been said about those forgotten people, that sturdy group of willing kids known as "paper boys"—those kids who get up before daybreak in all the b-r-r-r-ish weather we have been having lately in order that we might read our paper in the warmth and comfort of our homes. Three cheers and a couple of bravos (or should it be bravos?) for the All-American boy! Korea is not the only place where it is cold and where one might have cold hands and feet!

A LONG-TIME READER Editor's note: There are no "cold feet," figuratively speaking, among the paper boys who serve The Lincoln Star so faithfully. The final link between plant and reader, the importance of these fine youngsters is at all times recognized. Their loyalty and service has been especially appreciated during the recent difficult period of change-over. The Lincoln Star's carriers are America's best!

EXCELLENT COVERAGE Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of the Lincoln Star: Thank you for the excellent coverage of the recent state board meeting of the Nebraska division of the American Association of University Women held recently in Lincoln. The cooperation of The Star and its capable society department in publishing accounts of the activities of the state division and the branches of the organization is greatly appreciated.

DISTANT SUNSET Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of the Lincoln Star: The Wednesday editorial on "Food, Clothing, Shelter, Pay" brings up serious questions for us who, over 50, have our eyes fixed on the distant but inevitable sunset. There have been those who believed in going "not like the galley slave," but like one who "lies down to pleasant dreams." There was the old Greek hero who set out to sea with his old crew once more to "sail beyond the sunset." There have been the millions, generation after generation, who wallowed their precious selves about with possessions protecting them among their fellow men, the higher the wall, the less of glorious color in their sunset sky.

"The worldly hope men set their hearts upon Turns ashes—or if prospers, and anon Like snow upon the desert's dusty face, Lighing a little hour or two—is gone. Ah, make the most of what we yet may spend Before we too into the dust descend."

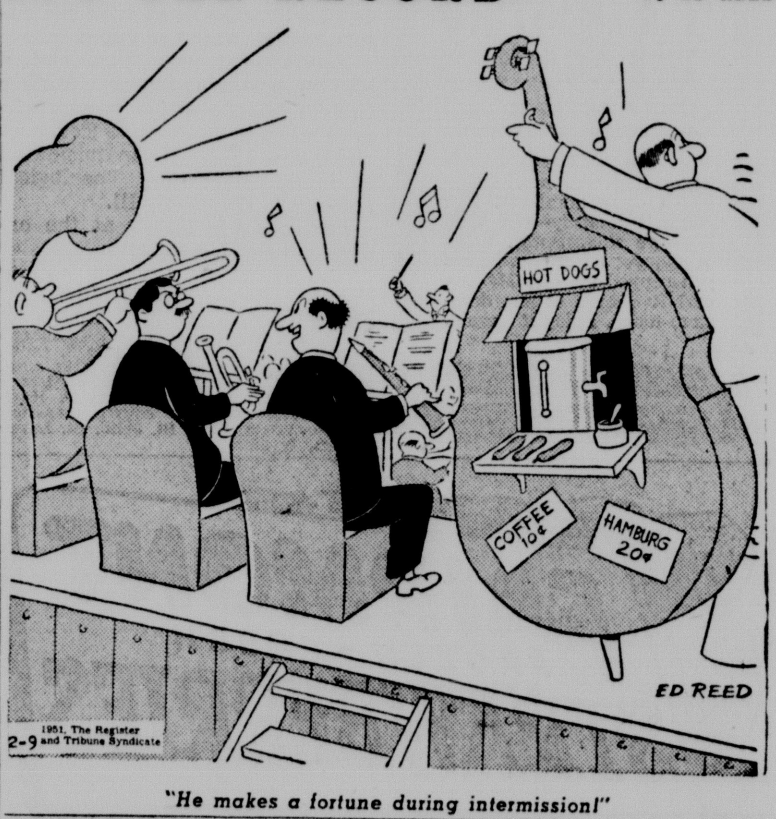

To make the most of your chance and mine, the only way to assure that, in Ike's words, we leave succeeding generations something greater than "millions, acres, or world fame." On a spring Sunday afternoon in Chicago in wartime, a bunch of "teen-age boys" were sitting around a card game in the fine, grassy park. Indifferent, they couldn't tell the old guy in sailor uniform of any kid ball games nearby.

How many of these bright afternoon hours of our day on eternity's calendar do we keep our eyes on these silly cards of daily habit, while the sun drops steadily toward that final horizon?

A minister of the gospel might use the text, "He that would save his life . . ." or "Lay not up treasures . . ." but let us say here what could apply to ancient Greek or beathen American red-

Togliatti Due Back From Russia Soon

Communist Leaders Said To Be Quitting Because Of Dictates

BY MICHAEL CHINIGO

ROME—(INS)—The return of Italian communist leader Palmiro Togliatti to Rome from Moscow was believed imminent Thursday night amid spreading Tito-like revolts in the party. Speculation concerning Togliatti's impending return was heightened by the departure of his personal physician, Enzo Spallone. And also significant is the fact that most prominent communist party leaders have quit in opposition to the Moscow orthodox line that Russia's good should be above Italy's interest.

Communist party headquarters contended that Togliatti is coming home soon "on schedule" after "his convalescence" in Moscow. He went there Dec. 17. The latest resignations of former communist stalwarts included that of partisan leader Riccardo Cozzani and Sarti Vignoli, a fine arts professor, both of whom live in Bologna, and also the mayors of two small towns.

They accused the orthodox party of trying to intimidate members who put the good of Italy ahead of any Moscow international line.

Branch Reports Assets
At An All-Time High

New contributions or additions to existing funds of the University of Nebraska Foundation totaled $245,088.19 last year, Perry W. Branch, director-secretary told the Foundation's board of trustees at the annual meeting Thursday noon. Mr. Branch said contributions in 1950 compared with $208,153.01 in 1949. Assets of the Foundation amounted to $832,222.10 as of Dec. 31, 1950, an all-time high, Mr. Branch said. This is an increase of $108,547.58 over a year ago.

$58,858 For Research
Funds turned over by the Foundation to the University of Nebraska during 1950 were divided as follows: Research, $58,858.91, which includes a $9,700 gift for purchase of cattle for Fort Robinson; scholarships, $27,787.71; fellowship and assistantships, $10,042.50; lectureships, $1,093.45; books, magazines and supplies $695.76; keys, trophies and prizes $102; furnishings for Love Memorial library $589.08; and miscellaneous items $1,256.47.

In the past three years the Foundation has turned over to the university more than a third of a million dollars for these general purposes, Mr. Branch said.

Campbell Lauds Policy
"Most Americans are pleased to note that our national policymakers do not intend to put our colleges and universities in mothballs for the duration of the present national emergency," R. E. Campbell of Lincoln, Foundation president, said. "It is the hope of the officers of the Foundation that friends and alumni of the University of Nebraska will not forget that the university and its students need the extra funds the Foundation can provide in time of war or in peace."

The Foundation officers besides Mr. Campbell, all elected for two year terms at the 1950 meeting, are: Joe W. Seacrest, Lincoln, vice president; John K. Selleck, university business manager, treasurer, and Mr. Branch, director-secretary.

Members of the board of regents and other university officials were guests of the Foundation at the luncheon meeting.

Yanks Fight Two Battles - - Against Reds And Hunger

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Korea. —(AP)— Only a few miles behind the front lines where United Nations soldiers are fighting another enemy—hunger.

Korean civilians, who are flocking back to their homes as fast as the U.N. troops free them from reds, are being fed by a U.S. army detachment.

The detachment, headed by Maj. R. T. Shugart of Calhoun, Ga., is located in Yoninaye, a ramshackle Korean village about five miles east of Suwon.

“Civilians come from miles around to get rice from us,” Shugart said. “We are feeding 10,000 of them right now and the number increases daily.”

The milling lines of these hungry v. tims of war begin forming each day at dawn. Until dusk they file by tables where their names are checked. Then they are handed enough rice for two days.

“We give the adults a pound and the children a half a pound,” said Shugart.

The rice is trucked in each day from Chonan, 20 miles to the south.

The army is operating a rice milling plant in Chonan to orient these people were forced to abandon their normal food stocks when the red hordes drove the allies from the area.

Navy's Big Building Program Approved

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A $2,740,000 program for building up the navy's fighting power won the unanimous approval Wednesday of a senate armed services subcommittee.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) chairman of the subgroup, said the legislation providing for the vast naval construction and conversion effort should be ready for expected senate passage next week.

More People Are Favoring Monuments

... State Group Told

The monument builders of Nebraska were told Thursday by Alex Park, Chicago, executive vice-president of the Monument Builders of America, that there is a revival of sentiment in favor of monuments.

Park spoke at the group's annual convention being held at the Capital hotel.

The results of a recent survey by his organization, said Park, have shown that 90 per cent of the people interviewed preferred a monument in memory of the deceased.

Revival Of Sentiment.

There has been a revival of sentiment in general, Park said, with religious interest increasing also. Such changes, he said, have a definite effect on feelings toward monuments.

Edward Warner, representative of the American Monument association addressed the convention Thursday afternoon. Following Warner's talk the committee on compensation insurance made its report. This was followed by the nominating committee report.

A banquet was held Thursday night with the showing of the film, "The Will To Be Remembered." The convention will be concluded Friday morning with the election of officers and final reports.

Low Salaries County School Heads Voiced

... At Rural Board Meet

COLUMBUS, Neb. —(AP)—The Nebraska Rural School Boards association has heard some strong complaints against salaries paid rural superintendents of schools in Nebraska.

The association, holding its annual meeting here, was told by its president, Alfred Gabelman, that the remedy for low salaries lies in groups such as the association itself.

"We must make known our wishes to the state legislature and to our county boards," he said. "The very tap-roots of democracy are in our schools. We cannot hope to have good rural schools without adequate supervision. And we won't get adequate supervision unless we are willing to pay for it."

Freeman B. Decker, state superintendent of public instruction, said Nebraska county superintendents get the lowest salaries of all county officials. Yet, he added, they "have the greatest influence over our children."

Lincoln County Superintendent Paul Extrom argued against "allowing kids right out of high school" to teach in rural schools without sufficient training. He urged raising requirements for rural teachers.

A resolution adopted by the association recommended retaining the present normal school training program in high school and retention of the third grade elementary certificate.

The group also urged maintenance of the present restricting law for two more years.

Good Chance Dean Is Alive

... Gen. Church Says

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Maj. Gen. John H. Church, former commander of the U. S. 24th division in Korea, says there is a "good chance" that missing Maj. Gen. William F. Dean is still alive.

Dean was Church's predecessor and has been missing since the early days of the Korean campaign.

Church, who is assuming command of the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., voiced belief that Dean is still a captive of the communists.

The returning general also believes it virtually impossible for the Chinese-North Korean communist forces to drive the U.N. troops off the Korean peninsula.

In summarizing the fighting, he said: "We are inflicting casualties on the Chinese in a ratio of about 10 to 1 and advancing all the time on the western side of Korea."

YMCA Discusses Foreign Emissaries

The YM.C.A. student staff at its regular monthly meeting discussed the question of whether the Y.M.C.A. should continue its program of sending representatives to other countries.

A senate armed services subcommittee.

There has been some feeling that the program has failed to produce worthwhile results. This feeling is probably the result of the chaotic condition of the world.

Most of the staff members thought that there is ample evidence that the program has been successful in spreading the Christian principles of the Y.M.C.A.

After The Presidency It's Autograph Hunters—Hoover

NEW YORK—(AP)—Democracy, says Herbert Hoover, is not a polite employer.

"The only way out of elective office is to get sick or die or get kicked out," the ex-president writes in his autobiography beginning this week in Collier's magazine.

"When a president is out he carries no pension, privilege or pomp. He does not even carry away an honorary title, not even colonel. He is about the only retiring public official who is just mister."

But Mr. Hoover is not complaining. As an ex-president he has enjoyed a "great sense of release" from responsibility and a personal freedom of action denied him as president.

But an ex-president, Mr. Hoover notes with gentle good humor, retains a definite market value among autograph hunters. He recalls that a youngster once asked him for three autographs.

"Why three?" Mr. Hoover asked.

"It takes two of yours to get one of Babe Ruth's."

The anecdote is typical of the mellow eye with which America's only living ex-president now looks back on his 76 years.

Beer Licenses Valid Only In City Issued

A wholesale beer license in one city cannot quit business there and take over a wholesale beer business in another city without getting a new license, the state attorney general has ruled.

In answer to a question by Liquor Commission Chairman Marcus Potet it was stated that the licensee must be a resident of the city where the licensed premises are located.

Potet said a licensee in Fremont wanted to sell out there and take over a business of a licensee in Nebraska City.

"He cannot operate in Nebraska City under a license issued for Fremont," the opinion said.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

Interest? A Wedding Date

SPRING AND SUMMER—1951—will be brimming over with attractive, popular brides—Late winter, incidentally, has news to offer in the way of a wedding, too—We hear the ceremony is this month, but no one will be aware of it until it is over—

RIGHT NOW WE ARE INTERESTED in a wedding date—Saturday, April 14, chosen by Miss Mary Aitken for her marriage to Raymond Clifton L. Greer, jr., of New York City.

The ceremony will be solemnized in the evening at the First-Plymouth Congregational church.

FOR HER MATRON OF HONOR Miss Aitken has chosen her sister, Mrs. John Taylor Greer, and Miss Nancy Aitken will be her sister's maid of honor. The foursome of bridesmaids will include Miss Mary Sue Holland, Miss Marian Battey, and two former Wellesley classmates, Mrs. Thomas Troxel of Mt. Clair, N. J., who spent a spring holiday in Lincoln as Miss Aitken's guest—and Miss Nancy Becker of Shaker Heights, O., who also has been the house guest of Miss Aitken.

RAN INTO SOME hush-hush traveling today—so we'll skip it and tell you what we planned to tell you yesterday—that Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reed will be returning home on Sunday from Mexico—

THEN—WE LEARNED that Dr. and Mrs. Richard Thomas will leave Sunday for a vacation to be spent in New Orleans, and Biloxi, Miss.

AND THAT REMINDS US that Dr. and Mrs. Thomas had house guests last week-end—

Dr. Thomas's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Thomas of Hebron.

BUT ON WITH OUR travelers—Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin Swanson left early Wednesday morning for Oklahoma City where they will spend ten days or two weeks as the guests of Mr. Swanson's family.

THEN WE LEARNED that Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Johnson leave Friday for Hot Springs, Ark., for a few days stay.

OFF WEDNESDAY AYEM were Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Cather who plan to spend six or eight weeks visiting in California—They go first to Los Angeles, and from there to San Jose where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, formerly of Lincoln.

SOMEONE TOLD us that Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Tinker returned to Lincoln earlier this week from Florida where they had been spending the past two months.

TODAY, WE UNDERSTAND, is the day that Mrs. Richard Kosman will be hostess to the members of her sewing club—Luncheon—then an afternoon of stitching—Hear that the husbands are heartily in favor of this organization.

Chili Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Priefert showed movies at the Lin-Scho Wives chili supper Thursday evening at Whittier school. Husbands of the club members were guests.

The board members of the club were hostesses for the supper. Mrs. H. C. March arranged the decorations.

elevator committee which investigated the possibility of installing an elevator at the Y.W. building. The board authorized the committee to proceed with plans for the installation, using an anonymous gift of $10,000 as a nucleus for financing.

Announcement of the resignation of Miss Charleen Jordan as staff secretary was made, and Mrs. Carl Wear was introduced to the board as the new program director for the Havelock Y.W.C.A. center. A report on the regional Y.W. conference, to be held at Chicago, April 13 to 16, was given by Miss Teresa McKenna, executive director.

Attlee Wins Second Test

... By 8-Vote Margin

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee's labor government turned back a second challenge to its existence in two days Thursday night by a margin of eight votes. The vote was 306 to 298 on the meat shortage issue.

The conservatives had sought to oust the government on a motion of no-confidence over its meat policies, which involved sharper cuts in the tiny British meat ration.

President Vaulx Risser introduced the speaker.

Fellowship of The Saints

By Thomas S. Kepler

"I need more grief, I plainly need more grief. I am far from that grief which I ought to know, I can sin much, but I cannot repent much. Oh, my dryness and my deadness! Woe unto me! Would that I had more grief or sorrow of heart! But of myself I cannot obtain it. I am dried up like a potsherd. Open in me, O Lord, a fountain of tears. Give me a molten heart."

In such contrition of heart cried Lancelot Andrews, intimate friend of King James I and Francis Bacon. Rare linguist (master of fifteen languages), outstanding preacher, one of the translators of the King James Version, bishop of Chichester, Ely, and Winchester, Lancelot Andrews made greatest contribution to Christianity in his "Private Devotions." Written for his own use in Greek and Latin, his work became public property at his death. No devotional masterpiece shows more deeply the search of the soul for its counter-part.

"The original manuscript," writes a friend of Andrews, "was slubbed with its author's hands and watered with his penitential tears." Says another, "To myself one of the chiefest compensations and off-sets for the reign of King James I is this, that the 'Private Devotions' were being continually composed and being continually employed—were being continually wrung out of him—during the whole course of that so mischievous reign."

In a great and yearning moment Lancelot Andrews cried to God in an "Act of Pleading";

Remember what my substance is, dust and ashes, and a wind that passeth away, corruption and the worm, as a stranger and sojourner upon earth, inhabiting a house of clay, whose days are few and evil, today and not tomorrow, at morning and not until evening, now and not presently, in a body of death, in a world of corruption, that lieth in wickedness; Remember this.

Although written for the time of King James I, this is a penitential prayer for us today. As we, like Lancelot Andrews, try to be "Christians in an un-Christian society," we in our frailty feel our part of the sins of the world and the deep need for God's grace and forgiveness. We find ourselves in a situation similar to that of Louis XVI in the eighteenth century. In writing to George Washington about Louis XVI, Gouverneur Morris, the American representative in Paris, said, "Louis XVI was a good man. In ordinary times he would have made a good king."

THOMAS S. KEPLER

But he has inherited a revolution.

The same might be said about many of us today. In ordinary times, without great problems to meet and solve, we could (without great difficulty) be good persons. But in our civilization we have inherited a revolution, and as this revolution goes on within each of us, we have a hard time to get along with ourselves. Each person is battling against selfishness, fear, resentments, and guilt. Before we can renovate the social scene of history, we must first remove the guilt within ourselves.

Pitirim Sorokin, sociologist of Harvard university, paints two types of people in the history of civilization. One type has met famine, war, and pestilence with cynicism, despair, and bestial living. The other type has arisen to heights of great moral behavior and deep devotion to ideals. Sorokin concludes that the diverse reactions to similar situations have been caused by the values for which the different groups have lived. The Jewish-Christian tradition exemplifies a people who have met their trials with triumphant courage and high idealism because they believe God is the center of their life. Like Lancelot Andrews we need to seek God's help, as through our penitent spirits His mercy, power, and wisdom can function. Upon such persons civilization's future must depend! The prayer, "For the Church of Christ Throughout the World,"

N.U. Research Workers Plan Annual Meet

... Feb. 15-16

The University of Nebraska's agricultural experiment station research workers are scheduled to hold their annual conference on the Lincoln campus Thursday and Friday, Feb. 15 and 16.

The researchers will outline their projects for the past year and discuss plans for 1951. Heads of each of the substations will give their reports. They include: Lionel Harris, Scotts Bluff substation; Jackson Davidson, Box Butte substation; J. C. Adams, North Platte substation; E. M. Brouse, Valentine substation; and R. L. Davis, Ft. Robinson station.

Young On Program
One of the principal speakers at Thursday morning session will be Gladwin Young of the soil conservation service at Lincoln. He will discuss the importance of uttered by Lancelot Andrews in the early years of his ministry, still breathes the spirit of the church universal in 1951:

"Let us pray for the churches throughout the world, for their truth, unity, and stability; that in all, charity may flourish, and truth may live. For our own church, that what is lacking in it may be supplied, and what is unsound corrected; for the sake of Jesus Christ, our only Lord and Saviour, Amen."

If the 650,000,000 Christians throughout the world would pray this prayer with deep sincerity, and then follow their prayers into social action, wondrous consequences would occur!

Lincolnite Faces Deportation To Russian Unless Pardoned

A 42-year-old Lincolnite faces deportation to Russia on March 23 unless he receives full pardons from Nebraska and Wyoming for three felony convictions.

He is John Schleiger, a native of Russia who came to the United States when he was only 10 months old but has never been naturalized.

Under the law, an alien who has two felony convictions is subject to deportation. The state pardon board will hear Schleiger's case March 14 to determine whether a full pardon should be granted.

He was sentenced Oct. 24, 1940, to five years in the state penitentiary from Lancaster county for forging a $145 check in Lincoln. He was paroled in 1943. Records show that Schleiger has had no "difficulties with the law" since his parole in 1943.

He at present is a salesman and route man for a firm in Lincoln.

In 1935, Schleiger was sentenced to 12 to 15 months in the Wyoming state penitentiary for forgery. He also was convicted in Wyoming in 1937 of issuing a fraudulent check and given a one and one-half to two year sentence, according to the records.

Truman: RFC Tiff 'Asinine'

Denies Aid Influenced Government Lending

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman assailed as asinine Thursday a senate subcommittee report alleging that a White House aid influenced the multi-billion dollar lending operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

A republican member of the subcommittee, Sen. Capehart of Indiana, immediately took issue with the president's remark, saying:

"That's as bad as his statement that the Hiss matter was a red herring."

And former President Hoover said the subcommittee's report shows there is "a particularly fruitful field for congressional activity" in reforming "abuses and mal-organization" of such federal agencies as RFC.

"Seriously Abused"

The report was issued last

Westermarck New Head District Bar Group

M'COOK, Neb.—(AP)—The new president of the 14th Nebraska Judicial District Bar association is District Judge Victor Westermarck of McCook. He was elected as the association's annual convention Wednesday. He succeeds Red Willow County Judge Wendell Cheney.

week by a banking subcommittee headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark).

It declared that three of the five RFC directors "seriously abused" the agency's lending authority by submitting to outside influence.

It named Donald Dawson, an administrative assistant to the president, as one of a group that "exercised influence" over RFC lending, and said Dawson "tried to dominate the RFC" with a good deal of success. It said it would give no opinion, however, of the propriety of the alleged activities of Dawson and other "outsiders."

Thursday Dawson looked on, smiling, as Mr. Truman told a news conference he saw no basis for criticizing either Dawson or any of the RFC directors.

A Good-To-Eat Valentine

For a Valentine luncheon for four, make rosy-red salads in heart shapes; then top them with creamy cottage cheese and bed them down on crisp lettuce. The salad is made with handy condensed tomato soup and its extra seasoning of onion gives it a real fillip. It's easy to prepare and economical, too.

A crunchy bread such as melba toast or hard rolls, tastes good with this salad. To carry out the red-and-white note you might have angel food cake with vanilla ice cream and strawberry sauce for dessert. And of course serve lots of tea or coffee.

VALENTINE TOMATO SALAD

Ingredients: 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, one 10 1/2-ounce can (1 1/4 cups) condensed tomato soup, 1 teaspoon finely grated onion (pulp and juice), lettuce, 1 cup creamy cottage cheese.

Method: Sprinkle gelatin over cold water and let stand at least 5 minutes to soften. Heat soup over low heat, stirring occasionally, until very hot. Stir in softened gelatin and onion until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Pour into 4 individual heart-shaped molds and chill until firm. Unmold onto a flat piece of lettuce. Make a heart of cottage cheese on each salad by piling up three tablespoons of cottage cheese on top of jellied tomato mold; smooth with small spatula, then add 4th tablespoon of cottage cheese and smooth again. Surround with extra lettuce.

Salt-Wahoo Outline

The Salt-Wahoo Watershed program was outlined Thursday before the weekly meeting of the Lions club by Stan Matzke.

The necessity of combining an over-all conservation program with flood-control measures was stressed by Matzke.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(AP)—The Harvard Lampoon, undergraduate humor magazine, Thursday awarded actress Elizabeth Taylor a "Roscoe" as the "most objectionable ingenue" in motion pictures in 1950.

The Lampoon tagged Miss

Taylor with the "worst female performance of the year" for her work in "Conspirator" and "Hung a similar label around the neck of Clifton Webb among male actors for his performance in "Cheaper by the Dozen."

And the editors, tongue in cheek, selected as the "happiest event" of the year "Shirley Temple's announced retirement from the movies."

Silly Slogan Sensible

COLUMBUS—(AP)—

It may sound silly to say "take it easy when it's freezy," but the slogan makes sense to W. E. Stuckey, extension safety specialist at Ohio State University.

He states that 111 farm people died in falls in the past year, many of which occurred on icy steps, porches and walks. Icy winter roads are a major hazard for automobiles, Stuckey reminds.
